

The Medical Program for International Promotion of Japan's Healthcare and Services for Rheumatic Disease in Indonesia

- In Indonesia number of Rheumatologists and opportunity for learning recent advances in rheumatology is quite limited. And most of the patients with rheumatic disease does not receive current standard medical care.
- Rheumatology experts from Keio University Hospital provide lectures and techniques in collaboration with Indonesian Rheumatology Association (IRA) and 3 Universities in Indonesia.
- This program will help to make fundamentals for independent and continuous development on rheumatic disease care in Indonesia and become Indonesia future good partner in trading medicine, pharmaceuticals and medical equipment.

< Program Schedule >

Nov to Dec: Japanese experts to Indonesia (13 experts)

- Indonesia-Japan symposium on Rheumatology (Yogyakarta)
- Lecture and technical training at 3 Universities.

Oct.: Exchange students to Tokyo (2 people)

- Medical training at Keio University Hospital (Tokyo)